Overview

We recognise that the foundation of London College of Business Studies is its learners. In order for us to enable our learners to achieve and to facilitate growth within our organisation, strategies that enable us to recruit with integrity must be in place. This policy sets out to define the minimum standards that all applicants to the college can expect when seeking information, advice, guidance and enrolment at the college. To this effect, we recognise that this must be implemented through two closely related, but distinct areas: Recruitment and Admissions.

Learner Recruitment

In addition to having quality staff, it is fundamental to the function of the College, that the recruitment of learners is conducted in such a way so as to maximise the opportunity for a learner to be able to apply, whilst ensuring that the academic standards expected of a higher education institution are met.

We approach this through accepting applications from as diverse a range of learners as possible to apply to the courses we offer, whilst maintaining the integrity of the educational standards set by the College and awarding organisations.

The college is committed to ensuring that it recruits learners with integrity irrespective of their age, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation or any other arbitrary diversity characteristic. It will make every effort to support learners who have special requirements by detailing the support available with their studies. The only prerequisite imposed is the ability of the candidate to satisfy the entry criteria for the course.

Promotion

London College of Business Studies aims to exploit varied avenues to promote the College and further our recognition in the wider community and to widen participation. The mechanisms outlined below represent the long-term goals of the College's modes of promotion:

- Actively encouraging word-of-mouth promotion through learners
- Distribution of leaflets and similar promotional material if necessary
- Maintenance of an accurate and user-friendly website
- An active presence on social media (e.g. Facebook)
- Presence at events intended for learner recruitment
- Conducting of our own targeted recruitment drives

Development of Professional Relationships

London College of Business Studies recognises that further development of professional relationships is a mechanism for improving the recognition and provision of services provided by the College. It enables us to embed learning in a real-life context and add value to course provision.

This involves the following:

- Developing mutually beneficial relationships with local businesses (e.g. advertising, discount schemes etc) enabling us to organise opportunities for professional development with their staff
- Further develop positive relationships with accrediting bodies through regular participation at events and curricular feedback
- Develop relationships with academic institutions in the UK and EU/EEA which conduct courses at entry level for our own (i.e. High Schools and Colleges) enabling us to promote direct entry routes to a diverse audience and ensure that the entry requirements are met with integrity

- Develop relationships with UK universities and recognition of our programmes as entry routes for their courses via direct entry, foundation schemes and top-up programmes

Admissions

Criteria for Acceptance on Courses

All decisions relating to admissions will be made in the best interests of the applicant. Decisions will be made on the basis of potential to succeed and will reflect the following characteristics of the applicant;

- Prior educational attainment
- Existing qualifications including, where applicable, those in English and Mathematics
- Prior work experience if applicable (voluntary or paid)
- Specific skills required for the course if any (identified clearly in the course specification)

Accreditation/Recognition of Prior Learning and Experience (APL/APEL/RPL)

Due to limitation of student number, LCBS mainly focuses on learners who do not hold an equivalent qualification or experiential learning recognition that may result in the consideration of an application for APEL/APCL. However, in the event of the consideration of such cases, please see the Recognition of Prior Learning policy.

Reasonable Adjustments

The college is committed to making any reasonable adjustments to prevent any disadvantage that an applicant with a disability or condition that may be categorised as a specific need may have compared to one who does not. This may include the provision of access to further support services in order to facilitate the equality of opportunity. Further details may be found in the Reasonable Adjustment and Special Consideration policy.

Late Admissions or Variation to Course Start Date

The College may accept late admission applications or delay the course start date for up to 1 month after the planned start date. Any late joining students will be given extra support to cover any missed lessons.

Admissions Process

Following an enquiry about admission, the following procedure will apply:

1. LCBS publishes the information of the courses it offers on its website. On receipt of a request, if the applicant has not already done so, the College will direct applicant to the relevant course section on its website.

2. If applicants wish to proceed with entry, they will be asked to complete an Application Form and submit it with the required supporting documentation.
3. The college will verify eligibility for entry in accordance with the respective awarding organisation's entry requirements. At all times the original ID and educational documents of applicants will need to be seen in order to verify the truthfulness of the documents. For students on Tier 4, the documents will be verified upon enrolment at the College after arriving in the UK.
4. The applicant will then be required to take a diagnostic assessment for English and Mathematics at the College and must pass the assessment to move to the interview stage. All the applicants who pass the diagnostic assessment will be invited to attend an interview with the designated College representatives. The applicants who fail the assessment will need to refer to the section, 'Appeals against Admission Decisions' below, if required.
5. After passing the interview the learner may be informed of the admission outcome at the end of the interview. The applicant will however, receive a formal offer of admission via email. The email will also include information regarding the induction that the applicant needs to attend.
6. Where applicable, the applicant will be required to pay the appropriate registration fee for the Awarding Body. The decision on whether to collect or when to collect the fee will be at the College's discretion.

Exemption from Modules/Units:

For learners who are enrolled for an external programme, their exemption is subject to the terms of the relevant awarding organisation. Exemption will take into account the learner's prior learning and experience.

Registration with Awarding Organisations

All new learners are usually required to register with their respective awarding organization and pay the relevant registration fee. If applicable, applicants will be informed of any such fee payable during the admission process. Please note registering with the college does not mean automatic registration with awarding organisations. It is the learner's responsibility to ensure compliance with the College and awarding organisation's registration policy. Our administrators can help learners to do this and where learners make direct application to an awarding body, they must supply a copy of their registration documents to the college as soon as they have registered.

Transfer between courses

All learners have the opportunity to transfer course within London College of Business Studies. The deadline for learner initiated transfers is the end of the third week after the class start date. All learners wishing to transfer are required to complete a Request form justifying the rationale for the decision to change course in the first instance. This is then sent to the Head of Academics or Principal for approval. Decisions will be made in accordance with the standard admission criteria, and will take into account both prior learning and experience if applicable. All learners must still meet the requisite entry requirements for their new courses.

In the event of circumstances beyond the learner's control and which necessitate the consideration of a change of course, the college will support the learner in making alternative study arrangements. The same admission considerations will be taken into account; however, there is no set window of application for such changes except where that is externally imposed requirement.

If a student has passed one of the courses at a lower level (example level 4 or 5) run through a different awarding body and has requested to take admission into a different course offered by a different awarding body and that is on a higher level than the one completed, the student will be required to undergo an interview only, conducted by the assessor/tutor of the course. No diagnostic assessment would be required due to the progression in place. If the course is completely different, for example a student previously studying business or management decides to study IT, Accounts or Law, then the relevant diagnostic assessment would be required for the particular course.

Appeals against Admission Decisions and Re-sit Requests

Following the Diagnostic Assessment and/or Interview, if an applicant has failed to secure a place at the College, he or she will be informed either over the telephone or via email of the outcome of the application. If a student is unhappy with the decision and feels that he or she was equitably suitably for the admission to the course, then he or she may contact the Admissions Office for an administrative review of the outcome or request to re-sit the assessment.

If the applicant decides to Appeal the decision through an administrative review, then applicant's performance in the diagnostic assessment and interview will be reviewed and verified by another tutor/assessor in conjunction with the admission office to ascertain the outcomes. If the review confirms the assessment decision/outcome as correct, then the learner will be informed of this and will be advised to re-sit if he/she believes that they can do better in the second attempt.

However, following the review, if it is determined that the learner's performance in the diagnostic assessment was adequate to be admitted to the programme, then the learner will be advised of this and will be asked to give a second interview only. The decision to accept the learner will now be based on the performance in the second interview alone.

The applicant will not be able to request another review but may appear for another diagnostic assessment and interview if he or she feels that they are likely to perform better. This request would also be made through the Admissions Office, which will be reviewed against the likelihood of the student being able to pass in the next attempt and use discretion to allow the applicant to re-sit. In any event, an applicant will not be given more than 2 chances to sit for the diagnostic assessment per intake.
